ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The production of this report would not have been possible without the concerted effort of the police departments and sheriffs' offices throughout Wyoming who report accurately and regularly to the State Uniform Crime Reporting and Domestic Violence Reporting Programs. The significance of their contribution is demonstrated in this report, which presents detailed information on the extent and fluctuation of crime in Wyoming.

INTRODUCTION

This annual report of Crime in Wyoming, 1989, presents data on reported crime from January through December, 1989, as well as crime trends experienced in Wyoming during the past five years (1985-1989). This publication also includes data on reported domestic violence incidents and fingerprint card submission information for January through December, 1989.

The data presented in the first part of this report was compiled from Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) records submitted by contributing law enforcement agencies in Wyoming. These records are designed to collect pertinent standardized law enforcement data at the city, county and state levels, and were prepared in compliance with the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) Uniform Crime Reporting Program standards and definitions.

Local law enforcement agencies prepare UCR forms containing offense, clearance, arrest and supplemental information, and submit the reports on a monthly basis to the State UCR Program, Criminal Justice Information Section, Division of Criminal Investigation, Office of the Attorney General.[1] UCR personnel verifies the reports, automates the data for later analysis at the State level and forwards the reports to the FBI for use in compilation and analysis of national crime statistics.

[1]See W.S. 1977 7-1-122 for legislation mandating the reporting of crime information to the Attorney General's Office.

Seventy individual law enforcement agencies currently report UCR data. These agencies serve jurisdictions representing 98.8 percent of the State population,[2] of which twenty-three are sheriffs' offices and forty-seven are police departments.

One limitation in crime reporting practices concerns the question of how much crime is actually being reported. Law enforcement agencies are only capable of reporting crimes known to them. A considerable volume of crime is never reported to law enforcement agencies because the victims may consider the offenses against them to be of little consequence, they may believe there is nothing the police can do about them, or they may fear retaliation from the offender. Consequently, information concerning some offenses is never entered into the present statistical reporting system.

The UCR Program collects data on a variety of crimes, which it categorizes as Part I crimes and Part II crimes.[3] The Part I crimes include the "Crime Index" offenses of murder, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny-theft, and motor vehicle theft. Arson was added as a Part I offense in 1979. (Throughout this report where arson is included with the other Index offenses, it will be referred to as the "Modified Crime Index".) For the above offenses, the UCR Program collects information regarding the incident, certain supplemental crime information, and arrest data. However, the UCR Program collects only arrest data for Part II offenses. Therefore, UCR figures do not necessarily encompass the most complete measure of all crimes or the actual economic loss incurred by victims.

Crimes and arrests should not be compared on a one-to-one basis; a crime is an event while an arrest relates to an individual. For example, the two figures may not match precisely, because several crimes may be solved by the arrest of a single individual. In such a case each of the crimes will be reported, but only a single arrest will appear, though each of the crimes for which the offender has been arrested may have been cleared by the arrest. Similarly, the figures will not match where a single crime is committed by multiple offenders and each of the offenders is arrested. In this situation, a single crime is reported in UCR figures, a single clearance by an arrest appears, but several people appear in the arrest figures.

In spite of these limitations the information presented in this report portrays the most accurate and realistic assessment available of crime in Wyoming.

The percent change figures used in this report were calculated by comparing the number of offenses reported by each law enforcement agency throughout the state while controlling for missing data. If any agency failed to report crime data for one or more months during 1989, the same months were excluded from the comparison with the previous year's reported data, as well as comparisons with 1985 figures. Similarly, agencies which did not participate in the UCR Program in 1985 were not included in the calculation of percent change figures. This method of calculation is used in order to avoid artificial fluctuations in reported crime based on changes in the number of contributing agencies from year to year, or their reporting frequency.

Also, readers are urged to use caution when interpreting the "percent change" figures which appear throughout this report. Several of the Index offenses, murder for example, occur somewhat infrequently. Given the comparatively low volume of these offenses, modest fluctuations may result in significant percent changes.

The Domestic Violence Reporting Program information was compiled from data submitted by all law enforcement agencies within whose jurisdiction incidents of domestic violence occurred and in accordance with Wyoming State Statutes 7-20-107 (a)(b) and 6-4-404 which mandate the reporting of all domestic violence incidents to the Division of Criminal Investigation, Office of the Attorney General.

Information concerning fingerprint card submissions from Wyoming Criminal Justice agencies as well as applicants is included in this report in accordance with the provisions of the Criminal History Records Act, 7-19-105, W.S.

THE CRIME INDEX

The offenses which comprise the Crime Index are all serious, either by their nature or by the frequency with which they occur, and each presents a common law enforcement problem. Crimes within the Index are categorized as Violent Crimes (which include murder, forcible rape, robbery, and aggravated assault) or as Property Crimes (which include burglary, larceny-theft, and motor vehicle theft). By congressional mandate, arson was added as a reporting offense in 1979. Its data collection is separate and, except where noted, it is presented independently of other offense data in this report.

During 1989, the volume of Crime Index offenses reported to Wyoming law enforcement agencies fell 1.1 percent when compared to 1988 figures. See Table 1. During the past year a total of 18,446 offenses were reported or known to law enforcement agencies, compared to 18,651 in 1988.

Four out of seven Index offense categories experienced an increase in 1989 from 1988, ranging from plus 1.2 percent for larceny-theft to plus 75.0 percent for murder. The three offense categories that showed a decline during 1989 ranged from minus 2.8 percent for motor vehicle theft to minus 22.7 percent for aggravated assault. Property offenses as a group, increased slightly, up 0.3 percent, while violent crime as a group, reflected a 17.0 percent drop over 1988 figures. Arson recorded a 13.9 percent rise from 1988, with 156 incidents reported during 1989.

The Crime Index as a whole, registered a decline of 9.6 percent in comparison with the same reporting agencies in 1985.

VIOLENT CRIMES

Violent crimes involve the element of personal confrontation between the perpetrator and the victim, and entail the use or threat of force or violence. By their very nature, violent crimes are considered more serious than property crimes.

There are four offenses in the violent crime category, three of which increased while the other showed a decline in 1989 compared to 1988 figures. See Table 1.

Murder noted the most substantial rise, up 75.0 percent. Forcible rape and rape attempts reflected an 18.6 percent increase and robbery was up 14.1 percent in comparison with 1988 figures. Aggravated assault experienced a 22.7 percent decline from 1988.

Violent crimes accounted for 6.6 percent of the 1989 total Crime Index, compared to 7.9 percent in 1988. See Figure 1. In comparison with 1985 levels, violent offenses as a group, dropped 5.9 percent.

PROPERTY CRIMES

Property crimes entail the attempt or actual taking of someone's property by another. Although property crimes are less serious in nature than their violent crime counterparts of the Index, they represent, by far, the bulk of the total Crime Index (see page 12). By virtue of the large volume of property offenses, they present a serious problem to law enforcement agencies.

As a group, property crimes increased slightly in 1989, up 0.3 percent, with two of the three property offenses experiencing a small decrease compared to 1988 figures. See Table 1.

Burglary was down 3.3 percent and motor vehicle theft dropped 2.8 percent for 1989. Larceny-theft was up 1.2 percent compared to 1988. Property crimes accounted for 93.4 percent of the total Crime Index in 1989 compared to 92.1 percent in 1988.

In comparison to 1985 levels, property crimes as a group, fell 9.8 percent. Arsons, (a property damage crime) showed an increase of 23.8 percent with 156 incidents reported in 1989 compared with 126 in 1985.

CRIME RATES

Crime rates represent the number of crimes in relation to the population of a given jurisdiction. The rates are calculated to provide agencies with a means of measuring the magnitude of the crime problem that exists in relation to the number of people who reside in their jurisdiction. Crime rates allow the comparison of the volume of crime in jurisdictions having different populations.

The population base figures (see Table 3) used in estimating the population of Wyoming for this report were compiled from two sources: U.S. Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census, and the Department of Administration and Fiscal Control, Division of Research and Statistics, State of Wyoming.[4] In calculating the population estimates for this report we have determined the percentage difference between the 1980 Bureau of the Census enumeration and the 1980 Wyoming Division of Research and Statistics estimates. These percentage differences are then applied to the 1989 Wyoming Division of Research and Statistics estimates to calculate our population figures. This method was adopted in order to adjust the State estimates to the decennial Census enumeration.

[4] U.S. Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census, 1980 Census of Population and Housing, and State of Wyoming, Administration and Fiscal Control, Division of Research and Statistics, Wyoming Population and Employment Forecast Report, 10th Edition, January, 1988.

All crime rates presented in this report are per 10,000 population unless otherwise specified. In addition, the UCR estimated "covered population" is the population base used in calculating crime rates (see page 11) unless stated otherwise. Crime rates are calculated by dividing the number of offenses by the population and multiplying the result by 10,000. Furthermore, since by UCR definition the victims of forcible rape are always female, the rape rates are per 10,000 females.

The crime rate for the Index offenses fell 1.7 percent in 1989, down from 395.6 per 10,000 population in 1988, to 388.8 in 1989.

The rate of violent crimes as a group, dropped 17.6 percent compared to 1988 and showed a decrease of 4.4 percent from 1985 crime rate levels.

The rate of property crimes as a group, registered a 0.3 percent drop from 1988, and an 8.1 percent decrease compared to 1985 crime rate figures. See Table 2.

DISTRIBUTION OF INDEX OFFENSES

During 1989, a total of 18,446 Crime Index offenses were reported to Wyoming law enforcement agencies. By far, the bulk of all offenses reported in 1989 were property crimes. These totaled 17,220 or 93.4 percent of the total Index. Larceny-theft alone accounted for 73.6 percent of the total Index in 1989 and 78.8 percent of all property crimes. As a group, violent crimes were responsible for only 6.6 percent of the Crime Index total.

CLEARANCES

For Uniform Crime Reporting purposes, an Index offense is cleared when 1) a law enforcement agency has identified the offender, 2) there is sufficient evidence to charge the offender, and 3) the offender is actually taken into custody. The arrest of one person can clear several crimes or several persons may be arrested in the process of clearing one offense. Clearances are also recorded in exceptional circumstances when some element beyond the control of the law enforcement agency precludes formal charges being brought against the offender. For example: death of offender; offender incarcerated in another jurisdiction.

Of the 18,446 offenses reported to the police during 1989, 5,299 were cleared, for an overall clearance rate of 28.7 percent. Violent crimes evidenced a substantially higher clearance rate than property crimes, with 84.7 percent of the violent crimes resulting in a clearance, while 24.7 percent of the property crimes were cleared.

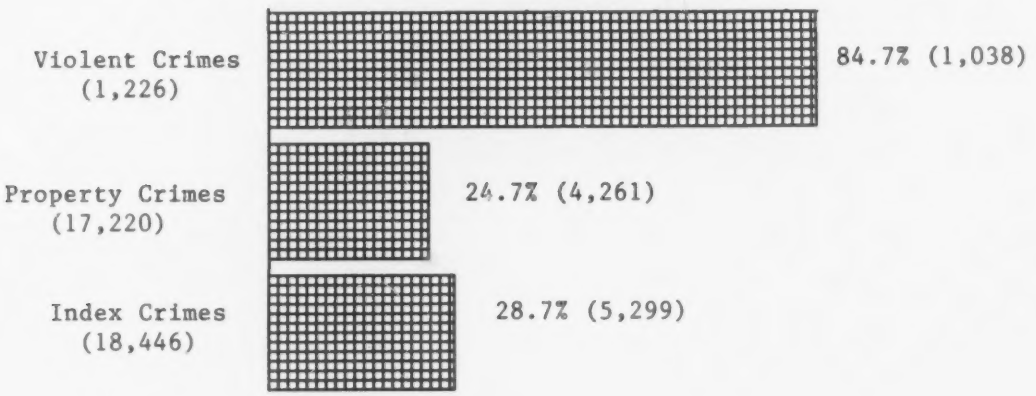
CLEARANCE RATES FOR VIOLENT, PROPERTY, AND INDEX CRIMES, 1989



The relatively high clearance rate for violent crimes compared to property crimes is due to several factors, including the volume difference between the two groups and the greater likelihood of a witness to violent crimes. During 1989, there was nearly fourteen times as many property crimes reported to law enforcement agencies as violent crimes. Also, because of their serious nature, law enforcement investigation of violent crime is usually more intensive. The element of personal confrontation between the victim and the offender may also contribute to the higher clearance rate for violent crimes. Moreover, the implementation of the Domestic Violence Reporting Program has influenced the higher clearance rate for violent crimes (especially assaults), as these victims live with and/or are related to the offender.

Clearances involving only persons under eighteen years of age accounted for 25.8 percent of the total clearances reported in 1989. See Table 4. During this reporting period, 1,368 clearances involving only offenders under eighteen years of age were reported, of which 6.5 percent or 89 were for violent crimes and the remaining 93.5 percent or 1,279 were property crime clearances. The primary juvenile involvement was within the larceny-theft classification, which accounted for 74.6 percent of all juvenile clearances.

MONTHLY AND SEASONAL FLUCTUATIONS

The following Table indicates the high volume crime months occur during the summer season, with August reflecting the greatest number of reported offenses for 1989. Comparatively, the winter months have the lowest volume of crime for 1989, with the least number of reported offenses occurring in February.

MURDER AND NON-NEGLIGENT MANSLAUGHTER

Murder and non-negligent manslaughter is defined by the Uniform Crime Reporting Program as the willful (non-negligent) killing of one human being by another. One offense is counted for each person willfully killed by another. As a general rule, any death due to injuries received in a fight, argument, assault, or the commission of a crime is counted. Attempted murders and assaults to murder are scored as aggravated assaults and not as murder. Suicides, accidental deaths, and justifiable homicides are also excluded.

During the period of January through December, 1989, 21 murders were reported or known to the police, compared to 12 murders in 1988. A comparison on an agency-by-agency basis indicates a 75.0 percent rise in the number of murders known to the police during 1989 when compared to 1988. Murder has the lowest crime rate of any of the Index offenses and it experienced an increase of 33.3 percent in 1989. The 1989 crime rate for murder was 0.4 offenses per 10,000 population, compared to 0.3 per 10,000 in 1988. Of the 21 murders committed during 1989, 19 offenses have been cleared for a clearance rate of 90.5 percent. This compares to 75.0 percent or 9 clearances during 1988. The value of property stolen incidental to the 21 murders occurring in 1989 totaled $70 compared to $375 stolen in 1988. Offenses of murder accounted for 0.11 percent of the total Index offenses reported or known to the police in 1989, compared to 0.06 percent in 1988. There was no percent change difference between offenses occurring in 1989 as compared to 1985 as both years registered 21 incidents of murder.

In all cases of murder reported in the Uniform Crime Reporting Program, a supplemental homicide report is submitted by the participating law enforcement agency. This report provides pertinent information consisting of a situation code, the age, sex, and race of victims and offenders, the weapon used, the relationship of the victim to the offender, and any known circumstances or motives which led to the commission of the crime. Presented in the following Tables is a summary of this information on the homicides reported during 1989.

FORCIBLE RAPE

Forcible rape is defined in the Uniform Crime Reporting Program as the carnal knowledge of a female forcibly and against her will. Included are attempts or assaults to commit rape. Statutory rape (without force) and other sex offenses are not included. One offense is counted for each female raped or upon whom an attempt to forcibly rape has been committed.

During 1989, 134 forcible rape and rape attempts were reported or known to the police as compared to 113 in 1988. A comparison on an agency-by-agency basis shows an 18.6 percent increase in volume in 1989 from 1988. Of the 134 forcible rapes reported in 1989, 100 have been cleared for a clearance rate of 74.6 percent, compared to 88 clearances or 77.9 percent in 1988. Property loss associated with the rape classification was zero for 1989 compared to $87 in 1988. Offenses of forcible rape and attempts accounted for 0.73 percent of the total Index offenses reported during 1989, compared to the 1988 figure of 0.61 percent, an increase of 19.7 percent. Forcible rape and rape attempts registered a 17.5 percent rise when compared to 1985 levels.

By UCR definitions, the victims of rape are always female. A more accurate account of the true victimization rate for this offense requires excluding males from the population base figure. When males are thus excluded, the rate of rape climbs from 2.8 per 10,000 to 5.8 per 10,000. See Table 14. The 1989 crime rate for rapes was 5.8 offenses per 10,000 females compared to 5.0 per 10,000 females in 1988, an increase of 16.0 percent.

It is important to note that victimization studies indicate that very young and very old females are victimized less frequently than the young to middle-aged females. Given this fact, a separate crime rate was calculated for females of ages 14 through 64 years. The victimization rate for this sub-population of females rises to 9.0 per 10,000 population, somewhat higher than the 5.8 reported for all females.

Though the UCR Program does not collect age data for victims of rape, it is believed that the exclusion of females below 14 and above 64 years of age will have no significant effect on the validity of these figures.

ROBBERY

Robbery is defined as the taking or attempting to take anything of value from the care, custody or control of a person(s) by force or threat of force or violence and/or by putting the victim in fear. One offense is counted for each distinct operation. The number of persons robbed or those present at the robbery is not considered when scoring this crime. Additionally, the number of persons committing the robbery has no bearing on the number of offenses being counted.

During the period of January through December, 1989, 81 robberies came to the attention of law enforcement officials, compared to 71 robberies in 1988. An agency-by-agency comparison indicates a 14.1 percent rise in the number of robberies reported in 1989 from the previous year. The crime rate for robbery also showed an increase in 1989, up 13.3 percent. The 1989 crime rate of 1.7 robberies per 10,000 population was up from the 1.5 per 10,000 figure in 1988. Of the 81 robberies reported in 1989, 26 offenses have been cleared for a clearance rate of 32.1 percent. This compares to 36 clearances, or 50.7 percent in 1988. The value of property stolen incidental to offenses of robbery in 1989 totaled $51,707 compared to $68,001 stolen in 1988. Robbery offenses accounted for 0.44 percent of the total Crime Index in 1989, up 15.8 percent from 1988 when robberies accounted for 0.38 percent of the Index. Robbery offenses reflected a 20.6 percent decline when compared to 1985 figures.

AGGRAVATED ASSAULT

Aggravated assault is defined as an unlawful attack by one person upon another for the purpose of inflicting severe or aggravated bodily injury. This type of assault is usually accompanied by the use of a weapon or by means likely to produce death or great bodily harm. Attempts are included since it is not necessary that an injury result when a gun, knife, or other dangerous weapon is used which could, and would, result in serious personal injury were the crime successfully completed. One offense is scored for each person assaulted or upon whom an attempt to assault has been committed.

During the period of January through December, 1989, 990 aggravated assaults came to the attention of the police, compared to 1,281 offenses in 1988. An agency-by-agency comparison reflects a 22.7 percent decline in the number of reported aggravated assaults during 1989 when compared to 1988. A crime rate of 20.9 offenses per 10,000 persons was witnessed in 1989, compared to 27.2 per 10,000 in 1988, a decrease of 23.2 percent. Of the 990 aggravated assaults known to law enforcement agencies in 1989, 893 have been cleared for a clearance rate of 90.2 percent. This compares to 1,105 clearances recorded in 1988 for a clearance rate of 86.3 percent. Offenses of aggravated assault accounted for 5.4 percent of the total Index offenses reported during 1989, compared to 6.9 percent in 1988, a decrease of 21.7 percent. When compared to 1985 levels, offenses of aggravated assault for 1989, reflected a 7.1 percent decline.

SIMPLE ASSAULT

The simple assault category includes all assaults which did not involve the use of a firearm, knife/cutting instrument, or other dangerous weapon; also, assaults through the use of personal weapon (hands, fists, feet) which did not involve serious or aggravated bodily injury to the victim. Simple assault is not a Crime Index offense, however, it is collected under the assault category for quality control and for the purpose of reviewing total assault violence.

During the period of January through December, 1989, 3,314 simple assaults were reported or known to the police, compared to 2,902 offenses in 1988. An agency-by-agency comparison reflects a 14.2 percent increase in the number of simple assaults reported in 1989. (Part of this increase is due to the State Statute requiring the reporting of all domestic violence incidents to the Division of Criminal Investigation beginning January 1, 1988.)

The crime rate for simple assault also noted an increase in 1989, up from 61.5 per 10,000 persons in 1988 to 69.9 offenses per 10,000 persons in 1989, an increase of 13.7 percent. Of the 3,314 simple assaults known to the police in 1989, 2,673 have been cleared for a clearance rate of 80.7 percent. Simple assaults accounted for 77.0 percent of the total number of assault offenses in 1989, compared to 69.4 percent in 1988, an increase of 11.0 percent. Simple assaults also registered a 78.4 percent increase over 1985 figures.

LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICERS ASSAULTED

All assaults on law enforcement officers (having full arrest powers) in which the officer sustained injury or in which a weapon was used which could have caused serious injury or death are included in this section. Also counted are those sworn officers who were not injured, but force was used against the officer. An offense is counted when an officer is assaulted in the line of duty, even though in an "off duty" status, where he/she is performing official law enforcement duties.

During 1989, 71 assaults on law enforcement officers were reported, compared to 84 assaults in 1988, a decrease of 15.5 percent. Of the 71 assaults reported during 1989, 98.6 percent, or 70 of these assaults, were cleared as compared to 96.4 percent clearances in 1988. Injuries were sustained in 33.8 percent of the assaults in 1989, compared to 23.8 percent in 1988. In comparison with 1985 figures, the 1989 assaults on law enforcement officers was down 21.1 percent.

In all cases of assaults on law enforcement officers reported in the UCR program, a supplemental report is submitted by the participating law enforcement agency. This report provides detailed information regarding assaults on law enforcement officers. The supplemental reports categorize the type of activity, type of weapon, type of assignment, assault clearance data, whether the assault resulted in injury by weapon category and the time the assault occurred. The following figures and tables present a summary of the 1989 data of assaults on law enforcement officers compiled from these reports.

BURGLARY

The Uniform Crime Reporting Program defines burglary as the unlawful entry of a structure to commit a felony or a theft. The use of force to gain entry is not required to classify an offense as burglary. Burglaries in the UCR Program are categorized into three subclassifications: forcible entry, unlawful entry where no force is used and attempted forcible entry. One offense is counted for each distinct operation.

During the period of January through December, 1989, 2,997 burglaries were reported or known to law enforcement agencies compared to 3,098 burglaries during 1988. An agency-by-agency comparison reflects a 3.3 percent decrease in the number of reported offenses in 1989 when compared to 1988. The 1989 crime rate for burglary was also down, from 65.7 burglaries per 10,000 population in 1988 to 63.2 offenses per 10,000 persons in 1989, a decrease of 3.8 percent.

Of the 2,997 burglaries during 1989, 621 clearances were recorded for a clearance rate of 20.7 percent. This compares to 22.4 percent or 695 clearances of burglary in 1988. The value of property stolen incidental to burglaries in 1989 totaled $1,944,095, down from the 1988 total of $2,249,107. Of all known burglaries in 1989, 62.9 percent involved residences compared to 59.4 percent in 1988. Offenses of burglary accounted for 16.2 percent of the total Index offenses reported in 1989. In comparison with 1985 levels, offenses of burglary for 1989 reflected a 14.6 percent drop.

Larceny-theft is defined as the unlawful taking, carrying, leading or riding away of property from the possession or constructive possession of another. It includes crimes such as shoplifting, purse-snatching, thefts from motor vehicles, bicycles, etc., in which no use of force, violence or fraud occurs. This category does not include embezzlement, "con" games, forgery or worthless checks. Motor vehicle thefts are also excluded as they are under a separate catagory.

During the period of January through December, 1989, a total of 13,572 larcenies were reported or known to the police compared to 13,406 during 1988. An agency-by-agency comparison shows a 1.2 percent increase in the number of reported larcenies from the 1988 figure. The larceny crime rate of 286.1 per 10,000 population for 1989 was up slightly, 0.6 percent, from the 1988 crime rate of 284.3 per 10,000. Of the 13,572 larcenies reported during 1989, 3,327 have been cleared for a clearance rate of 24.5 percent. The value of property stolen incidental to larcenies totaled $3,886,369, of which 39.8 percent were under $50 in value, 29.2 percent were $50 to $200 in value, and 31.0 percent were over $200 in value. Larceny offenses accounted for 73.6 percent of the total Index offenses during 1989, up 2.4 percent from 1988 when larceny comprised 71.9 percent of the total Crime Index. In comparison with 1985 figures, larceny - theft offenses registered a 7.7 percent decrease.

MOTOR VEHICLE THEFT

Motor vehicle theft is defined in the Uniform Crime Reporting Program as the theft or attempted theft of a motor vehicle. Excluded are thefts of farm/construction equipment, airplanes or motor boats, which are scored as larcenies. One offense is counted for each attempt or actual vehicle stolen.

During the period of January through December, 1989, a total of 651 motor vehicle thefts were reported or known to the police as compared to 670 in 1988. An agency-by-agency comparison reflects a 2.8 percent decrease in the number of reported offenses during 1989 when compared to 1988. Of the 651 thefts of motor vehicles in 1989, 313 offenses have been cleared for a clearance rate of 48.1 percent. This compares to 307 clearances or 45.8 percent in 1988. The value of property stolen incidental to motor vehicle thefts during 1989 totaled $2,689,470 compared to $2,551,056 stolen in 1988. Offenses of motor vehicle theft accounted for 3.5 percent of the total reported Index offenses in 1989. In comparison with 1985 figures, motor vehicle thefts for 1989 reflected a 26.1 percent decrease in volume.

Arson is defined by the Uniform Crime Reporting Program as any willful or malicious burning or attempt to burn, with or without intent to defraud, of a dwelling house, public building, motor vehicle or aircraft, or personal property of another.

During the period of January through December, 1989, a total of 156 arsons were reported or known to the police compared to 137 arsons in 1988. An agency-by-agency comparison shows that arson offenses were up 13.9 percent in 1989 compared to 1988. The 1989 arson crime rate also showed an increase, up from 2.9 arsons per 10,000 population in 1988 to 3.3 arsons per 10,000 in 1989. This represents a 13.8 percent increase in the arson crime rate for 1989. Of the 156 arsons known to the police in 1989, 42 have been cleared for a clearance rate of 26.9 percent. This compares to 30.7 percent clearance rate for 1988. The estimated value of property damage incidental to arson in 1989 totaled $2,548,459 compared to $2,921,623 in 1988. In comparison with 1985 figures, arson offenses reflected an increase of 23.8 percent.

INDEX OFFENSES BY CONTRIBUTOR

Table 40, on the following pages, illustrates Crime Index offenses, excluding arson, by county and agency for January through December, 1989. 1988 Index totals and percent change figures are provided for agency comparison. Given the comparatively low volume of several of the Index offenses, caution must be used when interpreting "Percent Change" figures since a slight shift in the volume of offenses may result in a large percent change.

The estimated population coverage figures are presented to provide the base used to calculate the crime rate per 10,000 population. Population figures in this report were calculated from data published by the U.S. Department of Commerce, Bureau of Census, 1980 Census of Population and Housing, and the State Department of Administration and Fiscal Control, Division of Research and Statistics, Wyoming Population and Employment Forecast Report, 10th Edition, January, 1988.

For agencies desiring to calculate rates using their own population figures, the formula is as follows:

$$\text{Rate} = \frac{x}{y} \times 10{,}000$$

Where: x = number of offenses
y = the population base

To alter the "rate" figure, substitute another number for 10,000 (e.g. 1,000, 500, 250). For example, if a community of 1,250 residents experienced 49 offenses during the year and would like to know the crime rate per 1,000 residents, the formula would be:

$$\text{Rate} = \frac{49}{1250} \times 1{,}000$$

Dividing 49 by 1,250, then multiplying that number by 1,000 we get 39.2 offenses per 1,000 residents.

¶ The extremely high crime rate noted for Hot Springs State Park Police is primarily the result of the very low resident population base figure.

STOLEN & RECOVERED PROPERTY

Supplementary reports relating to the value of property stolen and recovered are also provided by the participating law enforcement agencies. This supplementary report requires a value to be established for property stolen and recovered for each Crime Index offense. The determination of the value of property stolen is an obligation of the investigating officer. The following suggested procedures aid in this determination.

A. Use fair market value for items subject to depreciation.

B. Use the wholesale cost of goods stolen from retail establishments, warehouses, etc.

C. The victim's evaluation of non-depreciable items.

D. Use replacement cost or actual cash cost to victim for new or almost new items.

Additional Guidelines:

A. When property is recovered in a different condition than what it was at the time of the theft, that value is used even though it's a lesser amount than when it was stolen.

B. The value of property stolen refers only to property stolen incidental to crimes which occurred in that jurisdiction. Likewise, the value of property recovered includes only property originally stolen from that jurisdiction. However, it does not matter who recovers the property or where it was recovered.

PERSONS ARRESTED

On the following pages, Table 42 provides 1989 State Total arrest information, and Table 43 provides arrest data broken down by county and contributing agency. Table 44 and Figure 21 illustrate arrests for Drug Offenses, from 1985 to 1989.

Differences in arrest practices, policies, and enforcement emphasis among agencies influence the volume of arrests for various offenses, particularly those against public order, e.g., drunkenness, simple assault, vagrancy, disorderly conduct and related violations. However, arrests for serious crimes, e.g., robbery or burglary, are more likely to be consistent and uniform throughout all jurisdictions. Procedures employed in the UCR Program require that an arrest be counted on each separate occasion an individual is taken into custody, notified or cited for committing an offense in that jurisdiction. Also, although several charges may be placed against a person at the time of arrest, only one arrest (usually the most serious) is counted each separate time he/she is taken into custody.

It should be noted that juvenile arrests are in accordance with the age definition of a juvenile for the National Uniform Crime Reporting Program, which is a person under 18 years of age.

LAW ENFORCEMENT PERSONNEL

Because of varying demographic and other jurisdictional characteristics, the requirements for law enforcement service differ greatly from one locale to another. For example, the needs of a community having a highly seasonal population may be extremely different from one whose population is relatively stable. In view of differing service requirements and responsibilities, caution must be used when attempting any comparison of law enforcement employee rates. The rates presented in the following Tables should be viewed as guides or indicators, not as recommended or desirable police strengths. Adequate manpower for a specific locale can only be determined after thorough study and analysis of the various conditions which contribute to the requirements for law enforcement service in that jurisdiction.

OFFENSES IN UNIFORM CRIME REPORTING

Offenses in Uniform Crime Reporting are divided into two groupings designated as Part I and Part II crimes. Information on the number of Part I offenses known to law enforcement, the number cleared by arrest or exceptional means, and the number of persons arrested is reported monthly. Only arrest data are reported for Part II offenses.

The Part I offenses are as follows:

1. CRIMINAL HOMICIDE - a. Murder and Non-Negligent Manslaughter: The willful (non-negligent) killing of one human being by another. Deaths caused by negligence, attempts to kill, assaults to kill, suicides, accidental deaths, and justifiable homicides are excluded. Justifiable homicides are limited to: (1) The killing of a felon by a law enforcement officer in the line of duty; and (2) The killing of a felon, by a private citizen, while in the act of committing a felony. b. Manslaughter by Negligence: The killing of another person through gross negligence. Excludes traffic fatalities. While manslaughter by negligence is a Part I crime, it is not included in the Crime Index.

2. FORCIBLE RAPE - The carnal knowledge of a female forcibly and against her will. Included are rapes by force and attempts or assaults to rape. Statutory rape offenses (no force used/victim under age of consent) are excluded.

3. ROBBERY - The taking or attempting to take anything of value from the care, custody, or control of a person or persons by force or threat of force or violence and/or by putting the victim in fear.

4. AGGRAVATED ASSAULT - An unlawful attack by one person upon another for the purpose of inflicting severe or aggravated bodily injury. This type of assault usually is accompanied by the use of a weapon or by means likely to produce death or great bodily harm. Simple assaults are excluded.

5. BURGLARY-BREAKING OR ENTERING - The unlawful entry of a structure to commit a felony or a theft. Attempted forcible entry is included.

6. LARCENY-THEFT (Except motor vehicle theft) - The unlawful taking, carrying, leading, or riding away of property from the possession or constructive possession of another. Examples are thefts of bicycles or automobile accessories, shoplifting, pocket-picking, or the stealing of any property or article which is not taken by force and violence or by fraud. Attempted larcenies are included. Embezzlement, "con" games, forgery, worthless checks, etc., are excluded.

7. MOTOR VEHICLE THEFT - The theft or attempted theft of a motor vehicle. A motor vehicle is self-propelled and runs on the surface and not on rails. Specifically excluded from this category are motorboats, construction equipment, airplanes, and farming equipment.

8. ARSON - Any willful or malicious burning or attempt to burn, with or without intent to defraud, of a dwelling house, public building, motor vehicle or aircraft, personal property of another, etc.

The Part II Offenses are:

9. OTHER ASSAULTS (Simple) - Assaults or attempted assaults where no weapon was used and which did not result in serious or aggravated injury to the victim.

10. FORGERY AND COUNTERFEITING - Making, altering, uttering or possessing, with intent to defraud, anything false which is made to appear true. Attempts are included.

The following domestic violence information was provided by Wyoming law enforcement agencies and compiled by the Criminal Justice Information Section, Division of Criminal Investigation, Office of the Attorney General, in compliance with 7-20-107(a)(b) and 6-4-404 W.S..

The Domestic Violence Reporting Program was instituted January 1, 1988, and requires reporting of incidents on a monthly basis. Two main determining factors for the program are: the relationship of the people involved; and, the type of violence or offense associated with the situation.

Other factors involved which contribute to the amount of domestic violence incidents reported for any one month include: repeated incidents throughout the month involving the same individuals; one offender/multiple victims; and, mutual confrontation where the involved subjects are both victim and offender.

When more than one type of violence occurs, or multiple dispositions are reported for a single incident, only the most serious and/or consequential action is counted for reporting purposes of this program.

There were a total of 2,621 incidents of domestic violence reported during January through December, 1989 compared with 2,293 incidents in 1988, an increase of 14.3 percent.
